PRODUCT STATEMENT: FireEye Products Applicability to Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973

Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 is not applicable to FireEye Products.

Section 508 outlines under what conditions exceptions are allowed; FireEye Products apply to multiple items listed in Section 508 - Part 1194.3 General Exceptions.

Specifically the following exceptions apply to FireEye products:

1194.3 (a): FireEye products directly address Cyber Attacks and Malware. The Information generated by FireEye is of the most sensitive nature to the Federal Enterprise. May US Federal Intelligence Agencies and DOD organizations utilize FireEye Products to protect their networks and systems from Cyber attack.

1194.3 (d): FireEye products are never utilized to provide information, nor interaction, with the public.

1194.3 (f): FireEye products deployed within spaces only frequented by service personnel.

§ 1194.3 General exceptions.

(a) This part does not apply to any electronic and information technology operated by agencies, the function, operation, or use of which involves intelligence activities, cryptologic activities related to national security, command and control of military forces, equipment that is an integral part of a weapon or weapons system, or systems which are critical to the direct fulfillment of military or intelligence missions. Systems which are critical to the direct fulfillment of military or intelligence missions do not include a system that is to be used for routine administrative and business applications (including payroll, finance, logistics, and personnel management applications).

(b) This part does not apply to electronic and information technology that is acquired by a contractor incidental to a contract.

(c) Except as required to comply with the provisions in this part, this part does not require the installation of specific accessibility-related software or the attachment of an assistive technology device at a workstation of a Federal employee who is not an individual with a disability.

(d) When agencies provide access to the public to information or data through electronic and information technology, agencies are not required to make products owned by the agency available for access and use by individuals with disabilities at a location other than that where the electronic and information technology is provided to the public, or to purchase products for access and use by individuals with disabilities at a location other than that where the electronic and information technology is provided to the public.

(e) This part shall not be construed to require a fundamental alteration in the nature of a product or its components.

(f) Products located in spaces frequented only by service personnel for maintenance, repair, or occasional monitoring of equipment are not required to comply with this part.
