Carahsoft Adds Industry Leading Cloud-Based Solutions to Apps.Gov

Cloud Services From Adobe, VMware, HP, Red Hat and Others Now Available Online

RESTON, VA, December 15, 2009 - Carahsoft Technology Corp., the trusted government IT solutions provider, today announced the availability of many of its partners' solutions via Apps.gov, a GSA-operated Web-based store front where federal agencies can purchase cloud-based IT services utilizing a month-to-month subscription or annual contract.

"Cloud computing is a proven, rapidly deployable, scalable, and extremely cost-effective way for agencies to implement IT solutions," said Craig P. Abod, president of Carahsoft which is aligned with numerous strategic partners whose cloud computing applications are already being implemented successfully by government agencies. "Our customers are eager to use this new procurement vehicle which makes access to these cloud solutions even easier."

Apps.Gov was launched in September 2009 by U.S. CIO Vivek Kundra as a key element of President Obama's initiative to lower the cost of government operations while driving innovation within government. The online procurement vehicle features pre-approved software that is compliant with various federal policies.

Solutions currently available through Apps.Gov and Carahsoft are listed below. Carahsoft has also submitted additional solutions to GSA. These will be made available via Apps.Gov as soon as they are approved for posting. For more information, visit www.carahsoft.com/cloud.
