

State of Texas DIR Contract: Agenda Management & Video Streaming

Reston, VA – October 6th 2011 -- IQM2, Inc. the award-winning Open Meeting Automation software company, and Carahsoft Technology Corp., the trusted government IT solutions provider, today announced that IQM2's products are now available via Carahsoft's State of Texas DIR contract.

Administered by the Texas Department of Information Resources, the DIR provides statewide leadership and oversight for management of government information and communications technology. The DIR focuses on delivering quality information resources commodities and services at the lowest prices and best value for state and local government as well as the K-12 public and higher education systems.

"We have a large and rapidly growing client base in Texas and we are constantly striving to make it easier for governments, schools and public sector entities to take advantage of our innovation in the most efficient and cost-effective manner available," said Douglas Eden, IQM2 chief operating officer. "The Texas DIR makes that possible by helping agencies and organizations throughout the state deploy value-added public meeting technology."

IQM2 offers an end-to-end Open Meeting and Legislative/Board Process automation system that empowers government and public sector entities to enhance their meeting workflow, improve their decision processes, and collaborate with internal and private sector stakeholders. Products available via the contract include MinuteTraq (agenda process improvement), MediaTraq (Live and On-Demand Video Streaming), and E-Boardroom (electronic voting and meeting presentation).

"Carahsoft is pleased to make IQM2's innovative software available through our Texas DIR contract, thereby simplifying the procurement process for agencies and organizations throughout the state who are interested in improving and automating their meeting processes," said Craig P. Abod, president of Carahsoft which serves as the master government partner for IQM2.
